

Curtains fall on a glittering Quark 2017

VASCO: Quark 2017, a technology and management festival hosted annually by BITS Pilani Goa Campus drew to a close with the finals of all the events followed by cultural programme for the students.

Over the course of the festival, there were a series of events which were lined up and on Sunday, all the finals of each events were held. The results of the events will be declared after the event. All the previous rounds of the technical as well as management events saw immense participation which culminated in the finals of each event.

The final of the Robo Combat event drew huge crowds and it saw a war between the two best robots. The students have been running the show and the festival has been a platform for the youngsters to showcase their talents.

Another event that caught the attention of the youngsters was Matka which is the gaming event of Quark and the finals of games like Call of Duty, FIFA and Counter-Strike were held. The students also listened to a talk by politician, economist and Rajya Sabha MP Subramaniam Swamy.

“Swamy gave an informative talk about new leadership and he spoke about how we should step out of our comfort zone and take risks. It was a very nice talk,” said one of the students who attended the talk.

There was another talk by former chief election commissioner V S Sampath, which the students said was engaging.

To bring a successful festival to a close, there were various cultural performances from various artists.

Quark festival 2017 saw technical as well as management events for the students.